

Year 7

Felt that a outside representative would be better to talk to, should be put in different sex groups. Need more information for the Year 7's. Something then can carry a card with a number to call some one if they feel pressured? Should be taught all about relationships and when is the right time?

Sex education should be given properly to year 8, slightly higher level than in year 7
Cyber babies for boys

Year 9 this is when sex should be taught properly

We should have a nurse that is on site a few days. that everyone can talk to with any problem

Need more sex education defiantly for year 9.

Cyber babies – these should be given to all year 11 – for boys and girls – Boys should be optional

Maybe if students are giving protection maybe this is given the signals of to have sex?

Tyler Tierney

Lucy Hunter

Matt Butland

Presentation should be given to the Year 8 about the council, we need to give them an understanding about what happens and what we have achieved?

More talks to the year about Bullying, Racism, they don't understand what this is?

They also need advice on what can be done if the bullying is an issue?

Tackling girl's insecurity

Counselling – the councillor should speak to everyone, talk about if a student wants counselling then they can have an assembly

Year 9

Lenny Daley

Hannah Newman

Sexual health information should be increased throughout the year, they should be able to talk to the school nurse and she should be based here a few times a week. And they are available to talk to they need to be known to all the students. Pop up on your computer screen when you log in explaining about it. A poster on the back of a toilet door for girls and posters in boys toilets, to say about sexual health and maybe explaining about the new nurse. Years 7 and 8 should be split in to sexes, but as you come to year 10 and 11 you can be kept in the different sexes to talk about sex and relationships. Ask Katie Rowe for all details about sexual health
